

WINSHIP GETS THE CONTRACT

Rushville Contractor Also Successful Bidder on Graham School

Bids Opened Last Evening—
Description of the New Building.

Morris Winship, of this city, who secured the contract for the erection of the new Jackson school building, was also the successful bidder on the new Graham high school building, the contract for the erection of which, was awarded by the school board last night.

A large number of contractors were here to bid on the contract. Ten bids were submitted. The bids were opened about 7 o'clock, but the successful bidder was not settled upon until about 9:30. The bids submitted by the various firms are as follows:

C. W. Lees, Logansport, $35,350; Barber & Barecourt, Mecca, $48,197.30; Phil Wilk, Rushville, $40,562; Sanders & Detamore, Winchester, $35,916; Lichtenberger & Koontz, Bluffton, $36,267; Wolf & Ewing, Indianapolis, $36,273; Hingworth & Co., Muncie, $37,500; John R. Warren, Indianapolis, $41,000; Morris Winship, Rushville, $32,681; Burke & Smith, Muskegon, Mich., $33,725.

All of the contractors gave additional figures in case they used pressed, buff and any other kind of brick. Mr. Winship's bid, however, was the lowest all the way through.

The contract for furnishing the heating apparatus was considered separately. The bids were as follows: Bryce Heating & Ventilating Co., Toledo, $6,455; W. H. Johnson & Son, Indianapolis, $6,839; Peck & Williamson, Cincinnati, $6,651; Joseph M. Williams & Co., Louisville, Ky., $7,102; Thomas & Smith, Chicago, $5,150. The contract was not let last night for the reason that the contractors did not adhere to the specifications.

The board has not yet decided what kind of brick will be used in the construction of the new building. It will be made of brick, however, with stone trimmings. It will be two stories high, with an eleven-foot basement, a flat asphalt roof, and will be 126 feet long by 77 feet wide. It will be located on the west side of the lot, formerly occupied by the old First Ward building, and will front Perkins street. It will be set nineteen feet from the walk on the south side of Seventh street, nineteen feet from the walk on the north side of Sixth street, and forty feet back from the walk on the east side of Perkins street.

There will be five rooms in the basement—one of these is the science lecture room, and two others comprise the physical and chemical laboratories. There is also a school room in the basement. A work room for the custodian of the building is also located there. Seven feet of the basement walls will be above ground, affording plenty of room for windows and ample facilities for light and air. The basement will contain the coal bunkers, the boiler room for the heating plant, and fresh air room used to feed the fan system, which will force either fresh air or hot air through every room in the building. The fresh air and hot air capacity per child will be 30 cubic feet to the minute. There will be two toilet rooms in the basement.

The main entrance to the building is in the center on the west side. It will be very attractive and will lead to a long corridor that crosses the entire building through the center from the north to the south. At each end of this corridor will be another entrance. Both of these entrances will be alike and will be located in the center of the wall.

The corridor will be 17 feet wide. On the east it has two hallways. Each 9 feet 8 inches wide that leads to doors opening on the playground in the rear of the building.

Between these hallways is the high school study room, seating 250 students. This room is 52 feet wide by 56 feet long. On each side of this room across the two hallways to the north and south there will be two high school recitation rooms equipped with big armed recitation chairs. Two rooms for grade pupils, each 29 feet long by 23 ft. 4 in wide, are located in the northwest and southwest corridors of the first floor.

On the right side of the main entrance will be a rest room for teachers. Adjoining it will be a toilet room and lavatory. On the left side of the main entrance the superintendent's office will be located. Adjoining it is an inner room and a private office.

All the corridors in the building will be fitted with sanitary ventilated wardrobes, where the pupils will hang their wraps, etc. These may be fumigated in case an epidemic breaks out among the children. The ventilation in each wardrobe is at the top. The corridors will also contain drinking fountains.

The second floor contains a corridor exactly like the one on the first floor.

On the west side of the corridor there will be four school rooms, each 29 feet long by 23 feet 4 inches wide. In the southeast and northeast corners will be located two school rooms. In the center and on the east side of the corridor will be located the high school auditorium, equipped with a stage and capable of seating 500 people.

Double strength wood floors will be laid throughout the building. In the center of each corridor will be located a clock which automatically regulates and operates the call bell system to be used in the high school.

The building is to have a stone foundation. The stone will rest on a bed of concrete.

The building is to be a very beautiful one. It is a big improvement to the city and it is one that the people of Rushville will be proud of.

100,000 MEN MAY STRIKE

Large Movement is Started in Sympathy With the New York Plumbers.

[Special to the Daily Republican.]

New York, July 19.—Labor committees are abroad planning a strike of 50,000 workmen in building trades, in sympathy with the 1500 plumbers who are now on strike. If a vote, which is now in progress in various building trades, favors radical action 100,000 men may become involved in a general building strike against shop conditions.

Members of a special committee of the union, who went about the city yesterday said they had induced trades employers to discharge members of the plumbers' local No. 480, formed by the employers to oppose local No. 2.

IS BRUTALLY ASSAULTED

Clifford Morris of Cincinnati, Beaten About the Head.

Assailant Takes to Woods—Country is Searched by a Posse.

Clifford Morris, aged 16, who says that his residence is at Cincinnati, and who came here to obtain work was brutally assaulted by an unknown man, near the Big Four bridge, spanning Flatrock creek, south of the city. The stranger seized a stone and attacked young Morris unawares, striking him over the head and knocking him to the ground. He then committed a nefarious and vicious criminal assault on the young man's person. John Bell, of this city, who happened along the river bank, saw the assault and hastened to young Morris' assistance. The assailant took to his heels.

Young Morris was brought to the Gilson boarding house on South Morgan street, where his injuries were dressed by Dr. J. G. Lewis. Although badly hurt and suffering intense pain, Morris did not lose consciousness. He is able to be up and about this evening.

The police were notified of the assault and Policemen Price and Pea spent the entire forenoon, searching the country south of town and north of Bennett's corner. The assault occurred shortly before 9 o'clock and about 9 o'clock Charles Frazer and Commodore Bennett saw a man answering to the description furnished the officers, cross the road near the Rushville Brick Works and enter a corn field on Mr. Frazee's farm. He went in the direction of the King woods. The fellow was also seen by men at the brick yard. He was walking rapidly and carried his hat in one hand, while he mopped perspiration from his face with the other.

The police were unable to get any further trace of the man and returned to town at noon.

This afternoon a posse of seventeen men was organized to assist in the search. The men armed with revolvers, clubs and other artillery, gathered at the Big Four depot and then made a thorough search of King's woods, where the man was thought to be hiding, and the surrounding country. The search, however, failed to elicit trace of the fellow so it was discontinued and Policemen Pea and Price, who were with the posse, spent their time notifying surrounding towns to be on the lookout for the stranger.

A man who is the fiend that this fellow seems to be, has no business at large. Women and children are not safe when he is about. The police are very anxious to capture him and Policeman Price, through the Republican, authorizes anyone who sees the man, to capture and hold him. The fellow is a small like man, wears a black slouch hat, a black shirt and a pair of blue overalls over other trousers. He seems to be given to fits of passion or partial insanity. The fellow is a tramp and has been about Rushville for two or three days. Morris, upon his arrival in this city, fell in with the fellow and they went to the Big Four bridge to camp. Morris' relatives in Cincinnati have been notified.

The Situation at San Francisco.

San Francisco, July 19.—It was estimated that within three weeks of the fire on April 18, fully 335,000 people left San Francisco. According to computations made today, just three months after the fire started, there are now in San Francisco 365,000 people, with 50,000 more waiting in nearby cities for opportunity to return as soon as suitable accommodations can be had. According to this showing 200,000 people have returned.

THE OLD FASHIONED MEETINGS ABOLISHED

Rev. W. J. Russel Does Away
With Prayer Service—
Do Not Attract.

The old-fashioned prayer meetings, says Dr. W. J. Russell, pastor of the Christian church at Frankfort, formerly pastor of the Main Street Christian church here, is a thing of the past. The prayer meeting of the Frankfort church is as well attended as any other prayer-meeting. Yet, but comparatively few of the membership attend. The so-called old-fashioned prayer meeting does not attract. There is a host of good men and women who say that if the prayer meeting could be made as attractive as the Lord's day service, they will attend. For this reason, says Dr. Russell, a radical change will be made in the program of this mid-week service in his church. Special attention will be given to that which edifies. An appeal will be made to both the head and the heart. The pastor, with special preparation, will present a line of study that will be both instructive and interesting.

FOUND GUILTY

Trouble in the Ohmer Family
Aired in Court at Shelbyville

Wednesday's Shelbyville Republican says: "Because George Jackson, who has charge of the old Ohmer farm, west of Manilla, hauled wood from land claimed by John Fouch, a neighbor, he has been arrested and was in the court of Justice Isaac Keith, a good portion of the day. The trial began at ten o'clock this morning, and after a lengthy argument as to jurisdiction, got under way. It was not finished at noon nor a good while afternoon. Attorney E. W. McDaniel, who represented Jackson, contended that a justice of the peace did not have jurisdiction in a case where the title to property was in question, as he declared was the state of affairs in this trial.

The police were notified of the assault and Policemen Price and Pea spent the entire forenoon, searching the country south of town and north of Bennett's corner. The assault occurred shortly before 9 o'clock and about 9 o'clock Charles Frazer and Commodore Bennett saw a man answering to the description furnished the officers, cross the road near the Rushville Brick Works and enter a corn field on Mr. Frazee's farm. Physicians Called Upon to Treat
Cases of Stomach Trouble
—Infants Uncomfortable

The general health conditions seem to be in a very good state for this time of year. The customary stomach troubles which are prevalent at this time of the year claim their usual victims. These are laid to careless eating and the consuming of cold preparations, especially the drinking of ice water which is said to be very bad for the system. The usually warm weather of the past few days has caused a great deal of discomfort to the infants, but so far no deaths have been reported from this cause. The physicians of the city generally advise that particular care be taken in regard to foods, vegetables and water.

NOT THE FUN IT USED TO BE

Threshing in Rush County is No Longer a Big Event

Old Time Harvest is Gone For Ever—Tail End Man is Only a Memory.

"Wheat threshing in Rush county is not the picturesque process it was twenty-five years ago," remarked a retired farmer who stood on the court house corner this morning and watched a half dozen loads of wheat that had just come from a separator that was humming away out in the country neighborhood, go trundling by on their way to the elevators.

"It's like everything else," the former agriculturist resumed, "it's come to be done nearly altogether with machinery. There is no fun like there used to be in the old days before the cyclone stackers, the automatic band-cutters the patent measures and all those other labor-saving devices came into use. Why, it used to take a force of fifty men and twenty-five teams to do a job of threshing that amounted to anything. Now, fifteen men and ten teams are all that are required.

"You see, the first thing that cut down the threshing force was the patent straw-stacker. It furnished such assistance in piling up the straw that only three men were required on the strawstack, whereas, in the old days a stack of any considerable size required all the way from eight to twelve men. Sometimes a farmer would want to put the straw from fifty acres in one stack. In such cases as many as fifteen men would be used in disposing of the straw.

"The hero of a threshing outfit in those days was the man who stood at the tail-end of the machine and pushed the straw away from the carrier. He was a pretty fierce looking object when he got into operation. His clothing consisted of a jumper, a pair of overalls, a buckeye hat and a red handkerchief. The latter he knotted around his neck to keep the beards from getting down his back. He worked in a cloud of dust, and to protect his eyes, wore green goggles. To keep the dirt out of his bellows department, he wore a huge water-soaked sponge over his mouth and nose. He was at the pinnacle of his glory when he had to work like a dynamo to keep from being covered up. In a little while his clothing would be sloppy with sweat and he would smell like a kit of over-ripe mackerel. He wasn't an engaging individual to look upon when he would come from the stack at meal time and he wasn't an agreeable presence to sit alongside of at the table. But he was the big man of the threshing outfit, passing in importance, in most people's eyes, even the engineer. He always got a place at the first table and was paid the princely wage of $2 per day.

"After the straw-stacker came into use, the tail-end man was out of a job. He held on for a few years, however, helping to build stacks with the stacker. He was completely out of business when the cyclone came into use. The big wind left him without a place to work. Today the man who took the straw away from the tail end is little more than a memory. Those of us who were privileged to see him in the lime of his greatest limnosity know we will never look upon the like again.

"There has been a cutting down of the threshing force in almost every department save the field work. As many pitchers and haulers are required now as in the old days. Around the machine, however, the force is not more than one-third as large as it used to be. The person who notices the difference most is the farmer's wife. She doesn't have to cook for so many. It used to be that getting meals for the threshers was the big experience in the lives of the country women. And the way they used to feed them was a marvel. The tables fairly sagged beneath a weight of spring chicken, boiled country ham and every kind of vegetable the garden produced, to say nothing of the cakes and pies, honey and preserves.

"In these days when most folks are growing proud and stingy and losing the hearty homespun neighborliness of the old-time harvest season, a threshing dinner is a small affair. A few years ago some would-be economist started the fashion of taking his dinner when he assisted his neighbor in the wheat. Others took it up. In a good many neighborhoods now the farmer, who is having the threshing done has to feed no one save the small force of machine hands. His neighbors take a cold snack from lunch baskets and even furnish their own horse feed.

"It's fine, of course, to be in the country in the harvest time. But to those of us who recall the really good fun of the old gleaning season, it seems a little sorrowful that so many of the things that gladdened and brightened it have passed away, that they are all gone forever, because we have grown so wonderfully wise and come to be in such a tremendous hurry."

"It's like everything else," the former agriculturist resumed, "it's come to be done nearly altogether with machinery. There is no fun like there used to be in the old days before the cyclone stackers, the automatic band-cutters the patent measures and all those other labor-saving devices came into use. Why, it used to take a force of fifty men and twenty-five teams to do a job of threshing that amounted to anything. Now, fifteen men and ten teams are all that are required.

"Republican leaders have taken little notice of the minister candidate's canvass, as yet, but it is understood that Congressman Watson will make several trips over the district before the November election.

Both candidates will conduct speaking campaigns and the fight promises to be more interesting than was at first expected. The Rev. Mr. Kuhn is counting on securing enough votes from dissatisfied Republicans to overcome the big Republican plurality, but his claims are causing no uneasiness in the Republican camp.

Ninety-six names have been enrolled on the application for admittance into the State service. Some forty of this number met Col. Perry last night at the Windsor hotel. For an hour he explained to them everything about the service and spent considerable time answering questions. All of the young men present last night were very enthusiastic and anxious to form a company. Five young men present, last night, who were not enrolled, signed the roll before the meeting adjourned.

Those who are organizing the company will continue to enroll names until next Monday at which time the list will be forwarded to Col. Perry.

While here last night, Col. Perry appointed Dr. W. S. Coleman medical examiner. As soon as the names are sent to the adjutant general's office, the medical papers and muster rolls will be forwarded to Dr. Coleman, who will examine the men and preserve the papers. Each man will sign the muster roll at the time he signs his medical certificate.

As soon as sixty-four men pass the medical examination, which is not very rigid, a captain will be sent here from Indianapolis to muster in the company and preside at the election of officers. As soon as the officers are elected the

Shall Niagara Be Destroyed?

It is starting to read in a technical magazine over the signature of an eminent engineer, the assertion that the New York Legislature has already granted permits sufficient to absorb every drop of water that flows on the American side of Goat Island, and the completion of the projected plants is only a question of time. It seems almost incredible that the universal sentiment of veneration with which the civilized world has regarded the stupendous wonder since its discovery by Father Fenwick in 1678 should have been so blindly set at naught by the New York Legislature.

But an aroused public opinion may yet find a way to frustrate cupidity. Engineers have a scheme to deepen the American channel so that it may draw off a fair share of the upper river instead of the one-tenth part that it has always received.

It would be a crime against all that is highest and best in civilization if the vandal hand of sordid material progress should be suffered to depollute this greatest natural wonder of the new world, if not of the globe itself.

This has renewed in those who have seen the Falls a number of times to desire to once more visit this the greatest natural wonder of the world, and no description can ever prepare those who have never seen Niagara for the awe inspiring magnificence of this mighty cataract. No better opportunity will ever be offered the people to visit the Falls than that presented by the Lake Erie & Western Railroad on their Annual excursion Thursday, August 2. They are the pioneers in this business and offer an extremely low rate on this occasion. Each train will be under the supervision of men who have had years of experience, and these gentlemen will accompany the train to the Falls, which will insure the passengers every comfort.

Shakespeare said a few centuries ago, "that which we call a rose would smell as sweet by any other name," and the courts are teaching robbers that rebates are rebates, whether in the form of presents, private track charges, private car commissions, damages or plain secret rates.

It was predicted that congress with more than one hundred Republican majority would be unwieldy and a menace to desirable legislation. Just the opposite proved true, and the members who helped swell that unusually large majority deserve to be returned on the strength of duty well performed.

If there has been any fear that the people were losing their grip on the government, and that there was danger that the corporations would dictate, the work of the late Republican congress has dispelled that illusion. The laws of the recent session testify anew to that sentiment we all love, that this is a country of the people, for the people and by the people.

The record of railroad mileage for the year ending June 30th, shows that 2298 miles of new track have been laid in thirty-nine States, and it is predicted that the record will be increased during the next six months. This leads to the conclusion that our prosperity is not only real but well distributed over the whole country; and also that the enactment of a two-cent fare law in the several States is not seriously crippling the railroad business of the country.

It is rumored that Towne, of New York who has been a Republican, a Populist, and who is now a Tammany Democrat—and always an office seeker—is Bryan's choice as the Democratic nominee for vice president. When asked if he would suit in Indiana, Editor Stoll, who runs one of the strongest Democratic papers in the State, replied: "Decidedly and emphatically, no!" Can it be Editor Stoll is for Humorist Kern, of Indiana who is also regarded as a possibility?

The opinion is expressed by Democratic leaders here that the Cox-Zenor controversy which has been threatening to cause serious trouble in the Third district, will be amicably settled within the next few weeks by the retirement of Judge Zenor. The Republicans are without a candidate since the withdrawal of James W. Dunbar of New Albany. G. H. Hester, Judge Alexander Dowling of New Albany; Thomas Dillon of Jasper, and several others are talked of, but they are not showing a desire to make the race.

WILL MANAGE CAMPAIGN

Executive Members of State Republican Committee.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 19.—H. C. Starr of Richmond; Elmer Leonard, Ft. Wayne; Judge James E. Piety, Terre Haute; Charles Sefrit, Washington, and John C. Zulau, Jeffersonville, have been notified by Chairman Goodrich of their appointment as members of the executive committee of the Republican state organization. The make-up of the committee was agreed on finally at a conference at the Claypool Hotel between Senator Hemenway, Chairman Goodrich, Joseph B. Kealing, and Starr. Governor Hanly was present part of the time, and it is understood that the committee is very satisfactory to him. Starr will be continued as chairman of the executive committee. Leonard was formerly Twelfth district chairman. Judge Piety has recently sprung into prominence as a leader in Vigo county. Sefrit is a straight-out Hemenway-Fairbanks man, having recently attracted considerable attention with an editorial in his paper ridiculing the sentiment among certain Republicans that President Roosevelt is the only man who has a show for beating Bryan. Zulau was formerly a member of the state committee from the Third district. The personnel of the committee is regarded as one of the strongest appointed for several years. The members will have an important share of the management of the campaign.

Governor Hanly had a tilt at yesterday's session of the state tax board with Charles Martindale, attorney for the American Telephone and Telegraph company, because the latter, in making a return of the property it has subject to taxation, had failed to give the salaries of the officers, office employees and other laborers. The governor insisted that the company should have answered the questions, and he asked Mr. Martindale why it had failed to do so. Mr. Martindale replied that the company filled out the return blanks the same as in former years, when it had been satisfactory. The governor informed him then that the board wanted the questions answered and demanded that he get the required information. Nearly all of the big corporations that are assessed by the state board have refused to make public the salaries of their officers. The governor is insisting vigorously on this information being produced as a basis for the board to value the property. Most of the companies are failing to give the actual or market value of their stock. Governor Hanly told the representative of the Postal Telegraph company that unless it furnished the information the board would fix a value on the stock by which the state's interests would be protected.

That T. Taggart has no intention of resigning as Democratic national chairman because of the raid of the French Lick gambling resorts, is the statement made by ex-Attorney General Alonso Greene Smith, one of his principal attorneys in the recent litigation. "Mr. Taggart will not resign from the national chairmanship," said Smith. "There is no reason why he should resign. He has done nothing to bring about his resignation, and no good Democrat will ask him to resign. He has been perfectly vindicated by Judge Buskirk's decision." Taggart's fighting blood is said to have been aroused by the rough handling he has received by Democratic newspapers over the French Lick crusade, and he now proposes to stick to the chairmanship until after the next national convention, but it is intimated that he will then announce that he wants to retire because of business reasons.

Mr. Calvo, the Costa Rican minister here, was also a caller at the state department. As dean of the South and Central American diplomatic body he is intensely interested in all the developments in the present struggle.

Touching the authorization of American Minister Merry to represent Costa Rica in the approaching conference on the deck of the Marblehead, the minister explained that while his country had always maintained an attitude of strict impartiality in the present controversy between Salvador and Guatemala, it was deemed best to have a representative present at the conference in case the discussion should in any way involve the interests of the other Central American countries.

Mr. Calvo intimated that there is reason to believe that Costa Rica really initiated the movement for a conference by appealing directly to the government of the United States to come forward with its good offices when it appeared that hostilities were inevitable.

Salvador and Guatemala must decide through their representatives to the peace conference on board the United States cruiser Marblehead whether Honduras is to be represented in the conference.

There were several eyewitnesses to the affair, but when the police reached the scene no one would betray the identity of the murderer. One man boasted that he knew the name, but he refused to reveal it. The police are searching for this man to arrest him.

Will Take More Time for It.

Indianapolis, July 19.—At a meeting of the executive committee of the state board of agriculture it was decided not to advertise the state fair as "home-coming week," as had been proposed.

"When we have a home-coming week we will do the thing up right," said Charles Downing, secretary of the board. "We decided that the state board of agriculture did not have enough time between now and the fair to work up a 'home-coming week' satisfactorily, and so concluded to postpone this feature of the fair until next year."

FIGHTING CEASES

Armistice In Central American War Is Now In Full Force.

ANOTHER BIG BATTLE

Late San Salvadoran Advises Relate a Disaster to Guatemalan Arms at Platanar.

Central American Diplomats at Washington Air the Several Sides of the Subject.

San Salvador, July 19.—The armistice between Salvador and Honduras on one side and Guatemala on the other began yesterday. A treaty of peace is to be discussed in neutral waters on board the United States cruiser Marblehead. Saturday afternoon the Guatemalan forces were defeated at Platanar and Metapham with enormous losses.

CONFLICTING STORIES

Some New Light Thrown on the Central American Situation.

Washington, July 19.—The Guatemalan minister, Mr. Munoz, is much annoyed by reports from Salvadorean points that Guatemala continued fighting after it had agreed to cease hostilities. "Such stories are absolutely without foundation," he said today. "There was no agreement to cease fighting until the armistice went into effect yesterday, and the enemies of my country are endeavoring to put it in a false light."

President Escalon's special representative, American Consul General John Jenkins, who has arrived in Washington from San Salvador, has been in consultation with Assistant Secretary of State Bacon respecting the re-establishment of peace between the hostile Central American republics. The pith of his statements in this case is understood to be that Guatemala has been for a long time past intent on picking a quarrel with Salvador and has now seized on this pretext for the attack.
